Kings Dyke: Fenland council leader discusses way forward at key meeting

The Leader of Fenland District Council has today held urgent discussions with key partners delivering the King’s Dyke crossing project in Whittlesey to help drive forward an appropriate delivery solution.

Cllr Chris Boden held urgent discussions with representatives from Cambridgeshire County Council and the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough Combined Authority and will later today be involved in detailed discussions with construction contractor Kier to discuss how best to progress this key infrastructure project for the town.

Cllr Boden, who is also a town councillor and county ward councillor in Whittlesey, and a Combined Authority board member, said: “It is of the utmost importance that we facilitate a solution and find a positive way forward for the King’s Dyke project as soon as possible.

“The delays at the level crossing are a great source of frustration for Whittlesey residents and businesses, with a bridge not only tackling the current congestion levels but also helping the area to achieve its full economic potential.

“I have today been actively taking steps to ensure that the Combined Authority and County Council work together constructively to progress this important infrastructure project as quickly as possible for the good of Whittlesey and the whole of Fenland.”
